WARDROBE OF THE POPE.

Few rulers are surrounded with more ceremony and magnificence than the princes of the church. As for the Pope himself, etiquette and tradition have imposed upon him a sumptuous magnificence, and the wardrobe of Leo XIII is the largest and most costly the wide world has to show.

Three large rooms in the Vatican are given over to it and many servants are constantly at work keeping the vestments in order. There are garments set aside for each day in the year, and varying in color, weight and value according to the occasion and the season.

In Lent, the Papal raiment from shoes to cap is of scarlet. The Easter season calls for white. Other holy days demand other colors.

Every item of each costume is the finest and richest of its kind. The surplices at audiences are of priceless old lace. Nowhere in Europe is there a more valuable and interesting collection of lace.

The slippers of the Pope are legion and each pair is of finest velvet. The right slipper which is kissed by pilgrims and other pious visitors, bears a cross in gold embroidery; while, on the left, are embroidered the crest, keys, tiara and pallium which make up the crest of the Roman church.

But the slippers fade into insignificance before the value of the innumerable pairs of gloves. These gloves are of finest white wool.

That sounds modest; but as it happens, the wool is embroidered in costly pearls. The material for the gloves, as for all well-known garments worn by the Pope, is made from the fleece of a special flock of sheep dedicated to this purpose and owned by a family that has since the middle of the sixteenth century enjoyed the privilege.

From this herd of fifty sheep, a number of lambs are set aside each year. On January 21 these lambs are taken to the Pope and, in an impressive ceremony, receive the Papal blessing. After that, they are kept for a year at a convent near Rome and are cared for in the most elaborate and punctilious fashion.

The year being passed, the lambs are shorn and the nuns weave the fleece into palliums for the Pope. The pallium, a long strip of white wool, adorned ed only by a gold cross at each end, is the most sacred of priestly vestments, and is worn around the neck and body, the ends falling over the left shoulder.

Before Pope Leo wears one of his many palliums it must lie for a certain length of time upon the sarcophagus of St. Peter.

Many of the papal vestments are set with rich jewels and stuff with gold and silver; but these gorgeous garments are seldom worn since the Vatican lost its temporal power and the Pope has given up grand ceremonies. One of the few-elled robes, the famous cappa magna, or great cape, is so thickly set with gems that its weight alone would prevent the old and frail Pope from wearing it.

Pope Leo XIII is fond of jewels and has a remarkably valuable collection of rings, but only three of them are of gold. The Fisherman's Ring, carved with a representation of St. Peter fishing, is the Pope's official signet ring and is destroyed at the death of the wearer, a duplicate being made for his successor.

A STUBBORN COLD OR BRONCHITIS yields more readily to Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil than to anything that you can take; and if persistently used a few days, will break up the cold.

When you awake in the night choked up and coughing hard, take a dose of the Emulsion, and you will get immediate relief, where no cough medicine will give you relief. It has a soothing and healing effect upon the throat and bronchial tubes.

Most people understand Scott's Emulsion is a great body builder—but it is equally good to allay inflammation and cure colds and violent coughing.
